GAMBERO ROSSO

Renowned for its discerning standards, Gambero Rosso stands as a symbol of excellence, honoring destinations that embody the true Italian spirit, from authentic flavors and craftsmanship to impeccable service, ambiance, and unforgettable experiences.

A JOURNEY TO THE CU CHI TUNNELS

Located northwest of Ho Chi Minh City, the Cu Chi Tunnels offer a remarkable journey into one of Vietnam's most significant wartime landscapes. First developed in the 1940s during the resistance against French colonial rule, this intricate underground network was later expanded during the Vietnam War, becoming a vital base for the Viet Cong. Stretching across a vast area of the Cu Chi district, the tunnels served not only as hiding places, but also as living quarters, communication routes, storage facilities, field hospitals, and strategic shelters during years of conflict.

Depart from Ho Chi Minh City in the morning for a scenic drive through the countryside. As the city gradually gives way to rural southern Vietnam, the landscape unfolds with rice paddies, roadside villages, local markets, and scenes of daily life, including families drying rice paper and noodles under the sun.

Upon arrival, begin your visit at either the Ben Dinh or Ben Duoc tunnel sections, where you will gain insight into the resilience, resourcefulness, and endurance of those who once lived and fought beneath the ground. Explore selected parts of the tunnel system, learn about wartime survival techniques, hidden entrances, ventilation methods, and underground structures, and discover how the tunnels played a crucial role in Vietnam's resistance history.

For those interested, there is also an opportunity to view historical displays, see examples of wartime traps and equipment, and better understand the daily realities faced by guerrilla fighters during one of the most defining periods in modern Vietnamese history.
