NEGRONI SELECTION

The Negroni takes its name from a real life person. Count Camillo Negroni was a free wheeling nobleman who during a fateful visit to Florence’s Caffè Rivoire around 1919, decided that the trendy Americano -- Campari, Sweet Vermouth & Soda Water -- wasn’t enough, so he asked the bartender to swap the soda water for Gin and on that moment, the Negroni was created.

The Negroni

You can’t beat a classic. Campari, Gin and Antica Formula vermouth are gently stirred and strained over a large cube of ice and garnished with an orange twist

The price will vary depending on what Gin you choose. Please refer to Gin selection for full choice.

From 25

WINE BY THE BOTTLE

VINI FRIZZANTI / SPARKLING WINE

Italy’s most produced sparkling wine is a name that nearly everyone knows... Prosecco. With the best hailing from Veneto in northeast Italy, Prosecco is made from the Glera grape variety and is usually made in a different method to Champagne. The top regions to look for are Conegliano and Valdobbiadene as well as the famous Cartizze.

Franciacorta is another sparkling wine from the Italian province of Brescia. It is made in the same way as Champagne but only use grapes grown within the Franciacorta region consisting of Chardonnay, Pinot Noir and Pinot Bianco. This is a must try sparkling. Cheaper than Champagne with superior high quality.

Corvina is one of the main grape varieties that goes into making Valpolicella and the more well known Amarone wine. Blended along with the grape varieties Rondinella and Molinara, Valpolicella usually ends up being light in colour and texture, fragrant and elegant. A great Pinot Noir alternative.

Amarone is a rich, expressive red wine made from Valpolicella.

Amarone is produced in the same way as red wine, however, for Amarone, the grapes are dried following harvest (Appassimento technique), and it's the raisinated fruit that gets pressed and fermented. This drying of the grapes concentrates the sugars and completely changes the balance of juice and skin. The combination of both means that there is more sugar for the yeast to ferment into alcohol, leading to more powerful wines.

There is also more tannin, since the skins play a more significant role.

Amarone, in fact, loosely translates to "big bitter."

NORTHERN ITALIAN VARIETIES

At the base of the Italian Alps, ninety miles northeast of Alba, is the little-known winegrowing area of Alto Piemonte. The region, acquired its name more for its high altitude rather than for its relative location to the Langhe. Alto Piemonte literally translates to ‘high Piedmont’. It is an Alpine paradise set amid forest-clad hills on the banks of the Sesia River. It was once Italy’s largest and most important region for Nebbiolo production until the late 1800s where the area was decimated by phylloxera.

Gattinara is the largest and well-known region of the Alto Piemonte area. The Nebbiolo here was originally planted by the Roman Empire in the 2nd century, BC

Located in the picturesque landscape of Piemonte, northwestern Italy, Barbaresco produces one of the great expressions of Nebbiolo in the world. With the main vineyards situated in the Langhe region along the right bank of the Tanaro river, its vineyards stretch from the northeast of Alba to the communes of Barbaresco, Neive and Treiso.

By law, Barbaresco can only be made from the Nebbiolo grape. Benefiting from a slightly maritime climate these grapes tend to ripen earlier than those in Barolo resulting in wines that are less tannic, full of acidity and more approachable at an earlier age. The wines exhibit rich, spicy flavors and perfumed sweetness and is considered more elegant and approachable than its counterpart, Barolo, which is a more robust and longer-lived red.

NORTHERN ITALIAN VARIETIES

Barolo is a prestigious Italian DOCG wine hailing from the Italian region of Piedmont. Made exclusively with 100% Nebbiolo, an indigenous grape variety of Italy, it is aged for at least 3 years at cellar before release.

Usually light and translucent in color, Barolo is typically very well-structured, with a full body profile, good acidity and strong tannin, while expressing the aromas of raspberry, cherry, tar and rose on the nose.

Barolo DOCG encompasses 11 communes, the five most prominent ones being: Barolo, La Morra, Castiglione Falletto, Serralunga d'Alba, and Monforte d'Alba. Each commune produces Barolo of their own style due to their individual terroir. Barolo and La Morra tend to produce softer wines with good fruitiness, the other three communes produce more intense wines that require longer ageing.

LIMONCELLO

Limoncello is a fresh and sweet lemon liqueur made from steeping lemon zest in a grape-based or grain-based rectified spirit (a highly concentrated alcohol) for several weeks until the oils are released and then sweetened with simple sugar syrup.

The result is a mouth-filling, velvet-like bittersweet spirit with an explosion of refreshing citrus flavors that are a combination of perfectly balanced sweetness and tangy acidity.

AMARI & DIGESTIF

Amaro/Amari is an Italian herbal liqueur that is commonly consumed as an after-dinner digestif. It usually has a bittersweet flavour, sometimes syrupy, and has an alcohol content between 16% and 40%. Every Amaro is different, and there are hundreds of different Amari out there. Many are local and artisanal, though there are large brands, like Montenegro and Amaro Averna. Amaro is traditionally made by infusing grape brandy with a (usually secret) mix of herbs, flowers, aromatic bark, citrus peel and spices. It is then sweetened with sugar syrup and aged, sometimes for years. The result is a silky mouth feel, like a liqueur, with a bitter and sweet in varying degrees taste that is aromatically complex on the nose.

GRAPPA

A usually clear and high alcoholic strength digestif, Grappa is made by distilling the pomace (a blend of grape seeds, stalks, and stems) leftover from the wine-making process. Grappa production entails a zero waste concept and is a great example of what wineries can do after their wine production.

As mentioned earlier, the resulting spirit is not light by any means. On average, it contains 37.5 to 60 percent alcohol by volume so it's typically not for the faint of heart...
