Getting Around.

NOW OPEN FOR LUNCH!

Blue Ribbon Sushi Bar & Grill

Building on renown sister locations in Manhattan, Las Vegas and LA, sushi master Toshi Ueki and partners, chef's Bruce and Eric Bromberg, offer Miami their beloved hospitality and one of a kind experience.

Dining areas include an indoor dining room and sushi bar, outdoor poolside dining, as well as a full service lobby bar.

Recently opened for lunch, you can now experience all the best of Blue Ribbon Sushi at any time. The menu pairs the finest sushi and sashimi options with a variety of cooked Blue Ribbon Sushi specialties, including the signature Fried Chicken, Grilled Rib Eye, Oxtail Fried Rice, and Salmon Teriyaki.

The lunch menu now offers specialty sashimi bowls, specialty salads, and more.

The Early Years.

Remarkably, the iconic Plymouth Hotel building has hardly changed since its construction in 1940. Its strong lines and noteworthy forms have inspired the design and development of Miami Beach architecture for decades.

Its distinctiveness was recognized by none other than Barbara Capitan and the Miami Design Preservation League, whose early rallies in the 1980's were often held on the front porch at The Plymouth.

Its design departs from standard Deco formulas and incorporates an elegant juxtaposition of forms and geometries. This is form-giving architecture with its recall of the 1939 New York World's Fair. And this is also inspiring architecture.

This entire property was beautifully planned. From the spectacular corner tower entrance, through the ovalsque lobby all done-up in white marble and the beautiful murals of Ramon Chatov and out to the pool and courtyard.

This remains a very special historic property.

The Plymouth Cottage, formerly known as Ansonia, 1921, was the first building on the block. The facade remained untouched during the renovation.
