The artistry of tenun – the royal Malaysian tradition of silk weaving – has a heritage dating back 300 years. Pink Jambu worked with Shan Shan Lim, a graduate in woven textiles from London's Central Saint Martins. Lim configured Tengku Marina Ibrahim's nature-inspired designs into a graph, which was then conveyed to Cheminahsayang's expert weavers, who brought the designs to life. A range of scarves that beautifully match the 10 shawls has also been created. ven an unassuming bowl of noodles can provide a window to the past. Step back in time to a golden era of Hanainese cuisine at Colonial Café. This restaurant tells a tale of colonial influence on local cooking in its flavour-rich menu. Set in The Majestic Hotel Kuala Lumpur, a carefully restored property originally built in 1932, Colonial Café serves dishes that reflect Malaysia's storied history.

When Malaysia was under British rule from the 18th to the mid-20th centuries, there was an influx of Indian and Chinese migrants seeking employment in the country's rubber estates and tin mines. The Hainanese Chinese were among the last group to migrate here. Opportunities in the mines had become scarce so many found themselves working as cooks in the homes of British colonists. The cuisine that emerged from this arrangement – Hainanese Chinese chefs using Malaysian ingredients and flavours to replicate classic British meals – was a wholly new palate-pleasing innovation.

Dishes such as Hainanese Boiled Beef Soup – a fragrant mixture of sirloin, brisket and back ribs afloat in an Asian-spiced beef broth, garnished with radish and somen – and Hainanese Chicken Chop, cracker-crumbed deep-fried chicken with a tangy spiced-onion gravy, showcase the subtle blend of taste profiles that are a product of a centuries-long cultural mesh. The Hainanese chef who runs the kitchen takes this rich foundation and gives it his own spin, continuing the tradition of evolving the cuisine to delicious effect.

The ambience reflects the environment in which the recipes were conceived; the luxe mid-century decor complete with plush leather chairs, crisp white tablecloths and timber panelling that provide the perfect backdrop for a peerless taste of the past.

Spa Village Malacca is the world's only spa to base its therapies on the healing heritage of the Baba-Nyonya or Peranakan culture – a unique combination of Chinese and Malay influences.

f all the many cultures that inhabited Malacca's cosmopolitan streets during its peak as a prosperous trading port, the Peranakans, who are also known as Baba-Nyonya, left a particularly prominent stamp on the city. Descended from Chinese immigrants, these affluent traders set up shop around the region from Penang to Phuket, Singapore to Indonesia, bringing their distinctive customs and cuisine along with them.

One of the most significant contributions that the Peranakans brought to Malacca was their extensive knowledge of traditional Chinese medicine. For those hoping to experience these healing traditions in a luxe setting, every element of Spa Village Malacca draws deeply on the same ancient Peranakan wisdom. The extensive list of Glazed porcelain tiles, ornate woodcarvings and other aesthetic accents throughout the spa pay homage to classic Baba-Nyonya style. Upon entering the serene, light-filled space, guests are warmly greeted by an attendant. As no two bodies are quite the same, therapists often suggest a brief consultation to better understand a guest's individual needs. A simple questionnaire based on Chinese traditional medical philosophy helps balance to the body.

he Jara Hill walk and Malay herbal garden visit is led by the resort's naturalist Captain Mokh. As part of the popular PURE activities, the afternoon walk, which takes place from Monday to Saturday starting at 3.30pm, is an enjoyable and educational way for guests to learn about the efficacious herbs and plants popular with locals as well as their traditional way of life.

What will guests learn on the nature walk?

The walk is all about experiencing the coastal rainforest, where most of the flora comprises palm tree species such as coconut, sea mengkuang, hill mengkuang, lengkap and nibong, all of which are commonly grown close to the seaside. There are also hardwood trees such as meranti pasir, kapor, nyatoh, tembusu and dungun (from which the nearest town to the resort gets its name).

Which is your favourite part of the walk?

I find the pathway leading towards the herbal garden fascinating. Here, one can find the different habitats of flora ranging from resident plants, migrated plants and mangrove plants.

Would you tell us about the plants grown in the herbal garden?

Most of the plants grown in the area are the same plants cultivated by the locals in their gardens at home. Some of these plants are used for cooking. These include curry leaf, lemongrass, clove, pandan, kaffir lime, calamondin lime and varieties of ginger plants such as red ginger, torch ginger and galangal, turmeric, king salad (ulam raja), pennywort (pegaga), betelvine leaf, hana plant and roselle plants. Tongkat Ali, tea tree, noni trees, citronella grass, cat whiskers, elephant foot and rose cactus can also be found in the garden.

What about the wildlife that inhabits the area?

There are two species of monkey (long-tailed macaque and leaf monkey), monitor lizards, iguanas, tree lizards, sand lizards, geckos, snakes, civet cats and 42 species of birds.

What makes this walk special?

The beauty of the landscape that melds the beach with the surrounding area often amazes guests. There is a lot of greenery, and the plants close to the seaside look fresh and healthy. It is gratifying to know that the jungle's ecosystem is being preserved.

ali's mysterious northeastern coast is known for its black volcanic sand, an ancient fusion of Mount Agung and the Bali Sea. It is with the sand that a stay at Spa Village Resort Tembok begins. A known purifier of negative energies, the fine carbon-rich grains are used along with vibrant flower petals to cleanse one's feet, a ritual every guest at the spa resort is treated to upon arrival. In Balinese belief, the feet acts as a conduit between the energy of the earth and the self. Thus, washing the feet is considered a way of purifying the self of any negativity that may rise from the earth. This ritual is a perfect prelude to any treatment.

The property is located in Tembok ('wall' in Indonesian) that demarcated the territory of a king who reigned in centuries past. In this secluded corner of Bali, Spa Village Resort Tembok's School of Life programme takes place. The five-day/ four-night adventure is led by life coach, holistic practitioner and reiki master Savitri Talahatu.

This immersive wellness journey is composed of one-on-one consultations with Talahatu who then custom-creates a series of activities that best helps guests to achieve their goals. These objectives, unique to each person, may include getting more in tune with one's innate spirituality through guided meditation activities, learning to make more informed dietary choices for good health or even cultivating a better work-life balance.

The resort's spectacular natural environment, a picture of tranquility, and the graciousness of its staff, most of whom live in the area, create a setting that encourages contemplation, far from the technology-inclined madding crowd. The School of Life programme nurtures the body through its healthful meals (both non-vegetarian and vegetarian) for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

For a total wellness reset, guests enjoy unlimited servings of herbal teas such as chamomile, peppermint, lemongrass, ginger and oolong; nutritious water from freshly plucked coconuts; and a morning 'green' shot of pure extracted vegetables together with daily yoga classes.

The resort's innovative spa treatments (five of which are included in the School of Life itinerary) utilise garden-grown herbs; fruits, flowers and botanicals; and a specially selected range of energy-building massage techniques which help to invigorate the body and calm the mind. The Three Point Supreme massage, for instance, uses a combination of Indian and Balinese massage styles. The treatment detoxifies and recalibrates neural pathways through the therapist's intuitive acupressure skills. Then specially drawn night baths, including the nurturing mandi susu ('milk bath') with volcanic clay and pandan leaves, guarantees a restful night and peace-filled sleep.

ne of the most memorable activities in Sydney is a ride on a Sydney Ferry, those ubiquitous green and yellow vessels that still ply the harbour as they have for more than a century. Many journeys of discovery are available right at the doorstep of the Sydney Harbour Marriott at Circular Quay, gateway to many iconic attractions and one of the city's main transportation hubs. We explore the five best short Sydney Ferry rides to soak up that quintessential Sydney experience. The picturesque Watson's Bay was first established as the oldest fishing village in Australia. The ferry travels past the city's east foreshore offering great views across the harbour. Pick a picnic spot and feast on the famous fish and chips. Or stroll along The Gap clifftop to Macquarie Lightstation.

Eclectic Balmain is located to the west of Harbour Bridge and has terrific dining choices; you could do a pub crawl or visit Balmain Market on Saturdays.

A short trip across the water will take you to Cremorne Point where you can enjoy a lovely foreshore walk, admiring the gardens, fabulous vistas and federation architecture. Sophie's Lookout provides beautiful views of the harbour. The ferry to Abbotsford will take you under the bridge and up the idyllic Parramatta River. Enjoy a leisurely lunch at the renowned award-winning Sydney Rowing Club, the oldest rowing club in New South Wales.

The beachside suburb of Manly has been a draw for Sydneysiders since the 1800s. There is plenty to keep you busy here after the 30-minute ferry ride. Connecting the harbourside wharf to the famous ocean beach is Corso, a pedestrian mall dotted with surf shops, boutiques, cafés and classic pubs. You could even catch a whalewatching cruise.

GEORGIAN BEAUTY

It is hard to believe that visitors to Bath have been coming here for more than 10,000 years for its thermal waters. The city enjoyed a golden era of about 50 to 60 years as the pre-eminent bath town in Europe for frivolity and cures before the Roman baths closed. It wasn't until 2015 when The Gainsborough Bath Spa opened after extensive renovations of the former Bellott's and Royal Hospital Building, that discerning visitors had a reason to return for the waters as private guests. Within the heritage-listed limestone walls of this hotel with an elegance to match a city famed for its Royal Crescent, are 99 bedrooms with views of either the courtyard or the city.

Set beneath a glass atrium, Spa Village Bath offers a contemporary perspective on the city's thermal water heritage.

THE GAINSBOROUGH BATH SPA IS THE ONLY HOTEL SPA IN THE UNITED KINGDOM WITH ITS OWN THERMAL WATER SOURCE.

The Ottoman sultans had their Turkish baths, the Moroccans their hammams, Europe had its Vichy and Baden Baden but The Gainsborough Bath Spa is the only hotel spa in the United Kingdom with its own thermal water source. The Spa Village at the property consists of three pools of different temperatures, an ice chamber and treatment rooms. I highly recommend the aquatic body treatments, one of which combines yoga asanas and tai chi in a thermal water pool.

However, it is not all about bathing rituals if you are a guest; dining at Dan Moon at The Gainsborough was one of my highlights the last time I stayed here. Devon-born Daniel Moon's love of marrying seasonal produce in an eclectic fusion menu, supported by a knowledgeable, attentive staff, made it one of my meals of the season.

Originally built in the 1800s, The Gainsborough Bath Spa occupies two Grade II Listed buildings with distinguished Georgian and Victorian façades in the heart of the UNESCO World Heritage Site.
